I actually don't play a lot of games...I have only one on my iPhone that I've played since it's inception, however; someone suggested that I download Candy Crush Saga on my generic tablet....and I won't say that I was hooked, but I enjoyed the game as a past time. I was very disappointed that the Amazon Store does not have the "real" app and was warned that the Amazon experience wouldn't be the same as Apple. I doubted it and was proved incorrect! Know your options if they're important before you buy any product! Otherwise...love my Kindle!

If you are looking for candy crush this us NOT it. This is another game that came off as fast as it went on. As I said it's a good thing it's free because it's not even worth that. I had to give it a star to be able to turn this in but it's not even that.

Sometimes I get caught up in this game and notice almost an hour later that I'm still playing it! The one thing I don't like is that once you reach a certain score you can't go any higher and it says you've beat candy crush. But it's a great game!

I love this game, it is so addictive but since I am new to these games, I don't understand why I run out of moves. I have purchased more lives for .99 twice, I would rather just pay one price for the game than have to keep paying every time I want to get past a certain level. Otherwise, it is my favorite game ever.

If they were to get the real games instead of the rip offs then maybe they will keep coustomers. I highly reccommend not getting this game or any other rip offs. Lets hope that in the near future the kindle will top the ipad

Not for the easily frustrated. The game is addicting and seems geared towards selling extra moves and goodies that help you get ahead. If you like games of chance you will find it easier to repeatedly start over, like Solitaire, hoping for a better "hand". It took me some 30 or 40 attempts to get through level 23 and to date I am proud to say I have not purchased any "extras". Yeah me!

Candy Crush vs Candy Swipe

What is the difference between Candy Crush and Candy Swipe?

For a long time I've read friends on Facebook talking about "Candy Crush", so decided to go look for it in the apps available through Kindle, I have a Kindle Fire HD. I didn't find "Candy Crush" but did find something called "Candy Swipe", downloaded it, and have been having fun with it ever since. I have wondered if there is a difference between the games?

With Candy Swipe, you run your finger along candies that look alike that are next to one another in any direction, and get points for all that you "swipe" off the screen. You get double points if you have an ice cream cone that you can "swipe" along with the candies. There are two versions of the game, I like the one with the smaller sized candies:-)

I don't play many games like this, but this one is easy and fun to see if I can beat my earlier scores. The other games I play are Words With Friends, Hanging With Friends and Draw Something, but am not always the best opponent, as sometimes a couple days go by before I take my turn.

So those who play "Candy Crush", do you swipe like candies off of the screen or is it more involved than that?

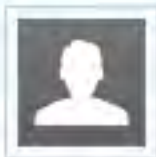

What other games do you like playing?

Has Candy Crush become Candy Swipe

I was looking for Candy Crush on Amazon but can't find it anymore.

New Game Feature!

Candy letters are unlocked each time you make a swipe with 8 pieces or longer (when you hear "Sweet!")

Once ALL 5 letters are on the board, swipe C-A-N-D-Y for 1,000 points and 40 seconds

CandySwipe Android Game
January 21

We would love you thoughts.. We just added a new feature to CandySwipe versions CandySwipe FREE 2.15 and CandySwipe 2.08 on Google Play. We added a feature where every time you make the game say "Sweet!" it unlocks a candy letter once you have all five letters swipe the word C-A-N-D-Y for 1,000 points and 40 extra seconds.. Please let us know if you would like to see this feature on ALL versions of CandySwipe. Your feedback is much appreciated 😊

The above image was posted on the CandySwipe facebook fan page on January 21 2013. Letting users know about the latest update of CandySwipe. It shows a new feature where users spell the word CANDY for incentive and points. It also references the the word Sweet! which has been a part of the game since 2010.

On February 6 2013 (two weeks later) King.com applied for the trademarks CANDY and Sweet! via the USPTO. The priority date on the applications are listed as February 1 2013 (one week after releasing this update).
